MEMORANDUM

HODGE, J.

MARCH 24, 2025

Plaintiff Darlene Cortez seeks to proceed in forma pauperis in this civil action, in which she brings claims against numerous individuals and companies based on an alleged decades-long theft. For the following reasons, the Court will grant Cortez leave to proceed in forma pauperis and dismiss her Complaint.

I. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS¹

Cortez filed her Complaint against the following Defendants: (1) Mary Pat Wright; (2) Kevin Wright; (3) Lansdale Electric; (4) Terrence Nolen; (5) “IRS”; (6) Louloua Al Sabah; (7) Garfield Mining; (8) Rowan Mining Co.; (9) “Great American Broadway”; (10) Arden Theater; (11) Jack Smith; (12) the World Heritage Foundation; and (13) Disney. (Compl. at 2-4.) As best as the Court can discern, Cortez alleges that beginning in July 2002 through the present date, the Defendants stole ideas and/or projects that Cortez claims to have invented, which she describes as follows: “a fashion house, natural beauty & clothing line, 10 mile agriculture teak project, school project, goldmine project, real estate development projects, international trade, energy project, [and] mining project.” (Id. at 5.) Cortez claims that the Defendants “used Pegasus spyware to block & control [her] computer” to access her work, allowing them to profit from her ideas and essentially steal billions of dollars of her wealth. (Id. at 5-6.) She further alleges that numerous United States Senators were involved in the theft. (Id. at 5.) Cortez “wants all IRS records” for the Defendants so she can “see the money trail,” and also seeks restitution. (Id. at 6.)

II. STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Court grants Cortez leave to proceed in forma pauperis because it appears that she is not capable of paying the fees to commence this civil action. Accordingly, her Complaint is subject to screening pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B), which requires the Court to dismiss the Complaint if, among other things, it is frivolous. A complaint is subject to dismissal under § 1915(e)(2)(B)(i) as frivolous if it “lacks an arguable basis either in law or in fact.” Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 325 (1989). It is legally baseless if “based on an indisputably meritless legal theory,” Deutsch v. United States, 67 F.3d 1080, 1085 (3d Cir. 1995), and factually baseless “when the facts alleged rise to the level of the irrational or the wholly incredible.” Denton v. Hernandez, 504 U.S. 25, 33 (1992).

III. DISCUSSION

Cortez essentially alleges that for a period of over twenty years, individuals, theaters, and major businesses in various sectors of the economy infiltrated her computer to steal her ideas and profit in numerous ways, apparently with the help of United States Senators. These allegations are wholly incredible and lack a basis in fact. Considering the nature of Cortez’s allegations, the Court will dismiss this case with prejudice as factually baseless because amendment would be futile.² See, e.g., West v. United States, 779 F. App'x 148, 149 (3d Cir. 2019) (per curiam) (“After carefully reviewing West’s lengthy complaint and his voluminous attachments, we agree with the District Court that dismissal was proper, as West seeks relief based on his contention that he has suffered a ‘covert civil death’ over the course of decades due to the alleged actions of countless individuals across the world.”); Mina v. Chester Cnty., 679 F. App'x 192, 195 (3d Cir. 2017) (per curiam) (agreeing with district court’s frivolity determination “[g]iven [plaintiff’s] efforts to connect his allegations about actions and events over approximately 20 years into a vast conspiracy against him, as well as the outlandish nature of some of his claims (such as the planting of devices on his body and the defendants’ revenge for his refusal to participate in the cover-up of the circumstances surrounding the death of an FBI agent’s wife)”; Caesar v. Megamillion Biggame Lottery, 193 F. App'x 119, 121 (3d Cir. 2006) (per curiam) (affirming dismissal of RICO lawsuit based on conspiracy to deprive plaintiff of her numerous lottery winnings given the “vast power, scope, and complication of the whole alleged conspiracy” and the statistical improbability of winning the lottery four times).

² It is worth noting that Cortez has a long record of bringing the same or similar claims (often against the same defendants) in the federal courts and that her prior cases were all dismissed. *See Cortez v. She also filed a second case on the same day she filed the instant civil action, see Cortez v. Al Sabah, No. 25-1392 (E.D. Pa.). Given this filing history, the Court warns Cortez that if she continues to file similar complaints, the Court may consider restricting her ability to file in the future.

An order follows, which shall be docketed separately in accordance with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 58(a).
